*Let what I feel fill me
 But not consume me.
 Let me follow what I feel,
 But not be forced.
 Let me be the kind of soul
 That never clings too hard,
 Who lets go and yet loves;
 Let me imagine better worlds,
 Yet work in this one;
 Let me touch and treasure even
 People I can never hold,
 And let me learn from all my losses.
 Let me out and let me in,
 And let me see and let me be
 A window that may be broken—
 but through
 Which bit of air and sunlight comes*

It's Oh So Quiet (11R)	58

Ohhh, to grasp the art of meaningful expression and write something that hasn't been said before...

So a quest for quality began as we pestered, pondered and pursued year book material. And with the help of a large committee of students and a small amount of vitally valuable teachers we went about our business. With our aim in mind and our precedents set, we feel that we haven't done such a bad job. So don't complain to us, maybe we have weird ideas but at least we tried.

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT

My Lord Bishop, members of the College community, I am privileged to present the 1997 Bunbury Catholic College Annual Report.

For me, as a new principal, it has been a year of many firsts - my first time appointing staff, my first set of enrolments, my first set of graduating Year 12's and now my first report as Principal of this College.

I would like to begin with a heartfelt thanks - the way that my family and I have been welcomed into the community has been unbelievable. Staff, students and parents have done everything possible to ensure that my first year as principal has been as enriching and trouble free as possible.

I believe that 1997 has been a year of consolidation, a year of making sure that as a community we are aware of what Bunbury Catholic College stands for.

On August 15th, the feast of the Assumption, we celebrated our own Feast Day. At our school assembly I took the opportunity to speak to our students about what an education at BCC is all about. There are 4 things that I believe a Catholic school should be developing within the students entrusted to its care.

Firstly, we should be teaching students to know and love the Christian Faith and practise it in the Catholic tradition. This will develop students who will leave our school with an absolute conviction in the presence of an ever-loving God.

Secondly we should be developing students who are independent thinkers with a deep sense of responsibility to themselves and to others.

Thirdly we should be encouraging students to seek out and value excellence and to never settle for second best.

Finally we should be nurturing students who have an understanding of the meaning of 'community' - what it means to care for and respect another person - students who realise that doing things for others is more important than doing things for themselves.

It is this concept of 'community' that I have spoken to staff, students and parents about at various times throughout the year. I would like to take this opportunity to share with you some of the different dimensions of our community.

Primarily we are a Catholic community providing a Catholic education. However Catholic Education is more than the Religious Education lessons we provide, in fact to limit Catholic Education to just RE lessons is a disservice. Being a Catholic educational community includes our liturgies and paraliturgies and all class activities. A Catholic community such as ours is dependent on all things that develop a culture and an environment where students, staff and parents respect and value one another.

Immersed in this authentic Catholic Education community is an academic community. Our academic results at all year levels continue to make us very proud. The dux of the College for 1996 was Piotr Baizert, who in his TEE earned a score of 477.7 allowing him entry into any course, in any university, across Australia. I am confident that our student's results for 1997 will make us equally as proud. On a day-to-day basis, our academic learning occurs in a traditional classroom setting as well as many off-campus experiences. Both the Art and the Biology Camps allowed students to experiment and discover ideas in a different atmosphere. Our students qualified to represent us in a variety of national educational forums - these included Halina Lamparski at the National Youth Science Forum in Canberra, Michael Martella at the BHP National Engineering Summer School in Brisbane and Craig Jennings at the Australian Student Mineral Venture in Kalgoorlie. Our students also performed exceptionally well in a variety of state and national academic competitions. Chris Gibson was placed in the top 5% in WA of the AMP Investments Economic competition. In the Australian Mathematics Competition Nicole Birch, Stephen Gorddard and Craig Jennings all achieved High Distinctions with Craig achieving our school's highest aggregate and being placed in the top 1% of all participants. Excellent results were also achieved in the Australian Geography Competition, the Asia Wise Competition and the University of New South Wales English and Science Competitions.

Besides being a formal academic community, we are a community which values wider learning. A number of our students this year were awarded their Bronze Surf Life Saving Medals. Other students made their fortune in the Stock Market Game and another group became proficient scuba divers. At all year levels, students were exposed to new experiences through retreats, camps, and Outward Bound. Our students were provided with opportunities to learn through off-campus excursions, including historic walks through Fremantle, visiting the Holocaust museum and trips to various tertiary institutions. This year we were privileged to have Constable Frank Yates of the Community Policing Programme come to the school and run a Driver Safety Course for interested students.

We are a sporting community with teams from the College representing us with pride in Bunbury, Perth and interstate. We continue to cherish and build on our Marist links, with our cricket team representing us at the Marist Cricket Carnival in Sale, Victoria and our netball team at the Marist Netball Carnival in Shepperton, Victoria. On an individual basis our students also received many accolades; Richard Gibson was selected as Captain of the State U/16 Hockey team with Jarred Phillips selected in the U/15 state team, Oliver Harbutt made the National Cross-Country Finals in Adelaide, Ian Fewster and Liam Shalders made the WA State Amateur Soccer Association Squad for Singapore. Leila Trezise made the National Equestrian Championships in Adelaide. Three of our students: Jemma Harris, Mark Johnson and Jarred Phillips were selected for the Associated and Catholic Colleges combined hockey team to tour Fiji. And in the ACC Honorary Athletics Team we were represented by Daniel Farnell and Daniel McLaren.

Our involvement as a cultural community was recognized at the Catholic Performing Arts Festival. This year the College was awarded the Zenith Trophy for Participation and Excellence. In July, staff and students put in an enormous effort presenting a cultural evening for our parents and community. Our students were also exposed to live theatre by attending various performances in Bunbury and Perth. Five of our students were awarded distinctions at the recent English Speaking Board Assessment panel. Our band and choir performed many times, both for our own community and for others. Their importance to our College was highlighted at the Mass of Thanksgiving several weeks ago. Our artists contributed to two major Exhibitions, the Angelico Exhibition and the Westralian Sands Visions Exhibition, our students received many certificates of commendation with Olivia Frewen winning the Upper school ceramics award in the Visions Exhibition.

We are a technological community with the Bunbury Catholic College home page being launched on the internet earlier this year. Our staff and students were connected with students throughout the world using the internet and being part of the international GLOBE project. Craig Jennings and Nick Kemp-Downs skillfully remodeled our Vision Statement using computer graphics - a framed copy of which is now hanging in our front office.

We are a community that is aware of the needs of others. Each year group focused on raising money for a particular overseas mission and the assistance of Robyn Willinge from the Bunbury Catholic Office was invaluable in setting up this project. Our students also generously donated their time in order to assist others in the wider community. Our Year 11/12 Food Production students raised almost $1000 dollars for Palliative Care here in Bunbury by hosting and catering for nearly 100 guests at a special dinner. Another of our students, Halina Lamparski, was appointed to the National Executive for the Young Christian Students' Movement.

We are also a community that cares for itself. Through our own retreat programme several year groups served our BCC community with their involvement in gardening, clean-up programmes and other community service projects. One of the most visual projects was the preparation and planting of the central garden acknowledging next year's celebration of our silver jubilee.

We are a community concerned with developing leadership qualities in our youth. A number of projects and issues were initiated by students. The school ball, two school socials, two free dress days as well as a review and modification of several school rules can all be attributed to the efforts of our Student Council. The Outward

Bound experience is one that almost all Year 11 students look forward to. This experience allows participants to display and develop leadership qualities under challenging circumstances. This year's event was no different and certainly a large number of students returned having a better understanding of what it means to be a leader. Another of our students, Bree Maciejewski (Year 11), was nominated for the Queens Trust - a national competition recognizing excellence in student leadership. Our Student Council, House Captains and Vice Captains as well as Kate Matthews (Head Girl) and Nathan Eaton (Head Boy) served our community well.

We are a community which welcomes and honours parental involvement. Our staff appreciate the support from the many parents who attend the parent information nights and parent teacher nights. The efforts of our parents to ensure the success of our Board, P&F, canteen and Art Extraordinaire must not go unnoticed. The work of this large group of parents contributed to the financial and social aspects of our community. To the retiring members of the Board; Fr. Jess, Charles Lockwood, Judy Cunningham and our long standing Board chairman, Paul Potter, I thank you for the years of dedicated service you have generously given to the College.

It is also appropriate to acknowledge the support of Bishop Quinn and all the priests of the Diocese. Bishop Quinn is very involved in the life of the school having visited the College to meet with our Year 12's and he has always been our principal celebrant at the Opening Mass and the Mass of Thanksgiving. A special note of thanks to Fr. Jess who has been the school chaplain for the last three years; we wish you well as you take up your pastoral role in the area of Katanning and Kojonup.

Thanks must be extended to all our staff, both teaching and non-teaching staff, because without their efforts the majority of the issues that I have reflected on would never have happened. Our staff strive to ensure that the education of each and every student is of paramount importance be it spiritual, academic, physical, cultural, technological or in the development of leadership. I firmly believe that a better team of colleagues would be hard to find. A vote of thanks must also be extended to the spouses and families of our staff for their understanding of the many extra hours our staff give to this community. This year an Administration Team was established to assist me with the many decisions involved in the day-to-day running of the College: To Carmel Forest, Les Fabre, Pat MacDonagh and during her absence, Mark Browning a special thank you, their support, advice and counsel to me have been invaluable. And while acknowledging the support of key personnel in the school, a thank you is extended to Brent Steere whose financial acumen has been of enormous value to the College.

We are a dynamic community and this does involve staff changes. To Anne Cairns (retiring), Rachel Gallucio (Seton College), Stacey Shea (travel) and Tarsha Standley (marriage); I thank you very much for leaving your mark on Bunbury Catholic College. I pray that wherever your paths take you that you recall your years at BCC with fond memories.

To the future - and it is certainly a bright future for our community. For the first time since the late eighties we have a waiting list of students wanting to enter the College at Year 8. Solid links have been established with our feeder primary schools and these will be built upon in 1998. Parents in the Bunbury and surrounding parishes can feel confident that the different stages of Catholic education system are working together to provide a Catholic education from Kindergarten to Year 12. A new position, that of 'Publicity and Development Officer', has been established at the College to develop our links with past scholars and to ensure that the wider community is fully aware of the many good things happening here in our community. 1998 will also be special because it is a year that we are dedicating to the celebration of the Silver Jubilee of the College - I hope to see many of you at the various celebrations planned for next year.

Finally I wish to say thank you for your presence and support here tonight, I hope that we continue to have a long and happy association during the coming years.

CAPTAINS' REPORT

Well, 1997 didn't take time in coming to an end !!

In February, we listened to Mrs. Hogan telling us how fast this year would go, and being typical Year 12's, we thought we knew all and silently passed her talk off as ridiculous. Now it's October, TEE starts in a month and what was once ridiculous is now reality.

We started the year with leadership camp, which brought the Year 12's and Year 11's together allowing us to understand the meaning of teamwork and how every individual contributes to a cause.

This definitely helped student leaders and staff work together to create a closer college community. Thanks to all the staff who made the leadership camp possible.

The school SRC has put a lot of effort into organising socials, fund raising and working towards a friendlier school environment. A big thank you to Ms. Twaddle and the SRC members for all their contributions.

Also, Year 12 SRC put a huge amount of time into organising all the very important Year 12 stuff and various school functions, so thank you to them and their mentor Mr. Douglas.

Year 12's were split up into two groups for the retreat, which saw half go to Baldivis, and the other half marooned at Serpentine. This gave the year group a chance to really get to know each other, and experience the people that lie beneath the badges, books, and joggers. A great time was had by all, and the event was one of the highlights of Year 12.

A thank you must be sent to all the teachers and parents who helped with the running of the retreat.

The night of the "Under the Sea" ball gave the blokes a chance to get all spruced up and the chicks all dolled up and to have great time, which was definitely achieved.

A special thanks to the ball committee and the teachers must be sent, especially to Mr. Douglas and Ms. Love who gave up a lot of their time to get the show on the road.

Thank you to all the teachers who made the 1997 school year possible, and a big thank you to Mr. Banks aka. "Super Principal.." The energy and sense of community that our new principal has injected into BCC is nothing short of magnificent, from attending every possible school associated sporting event, to teaching year 12 religion and year 11 maths. He has DEFINITELY been eating his spinach !

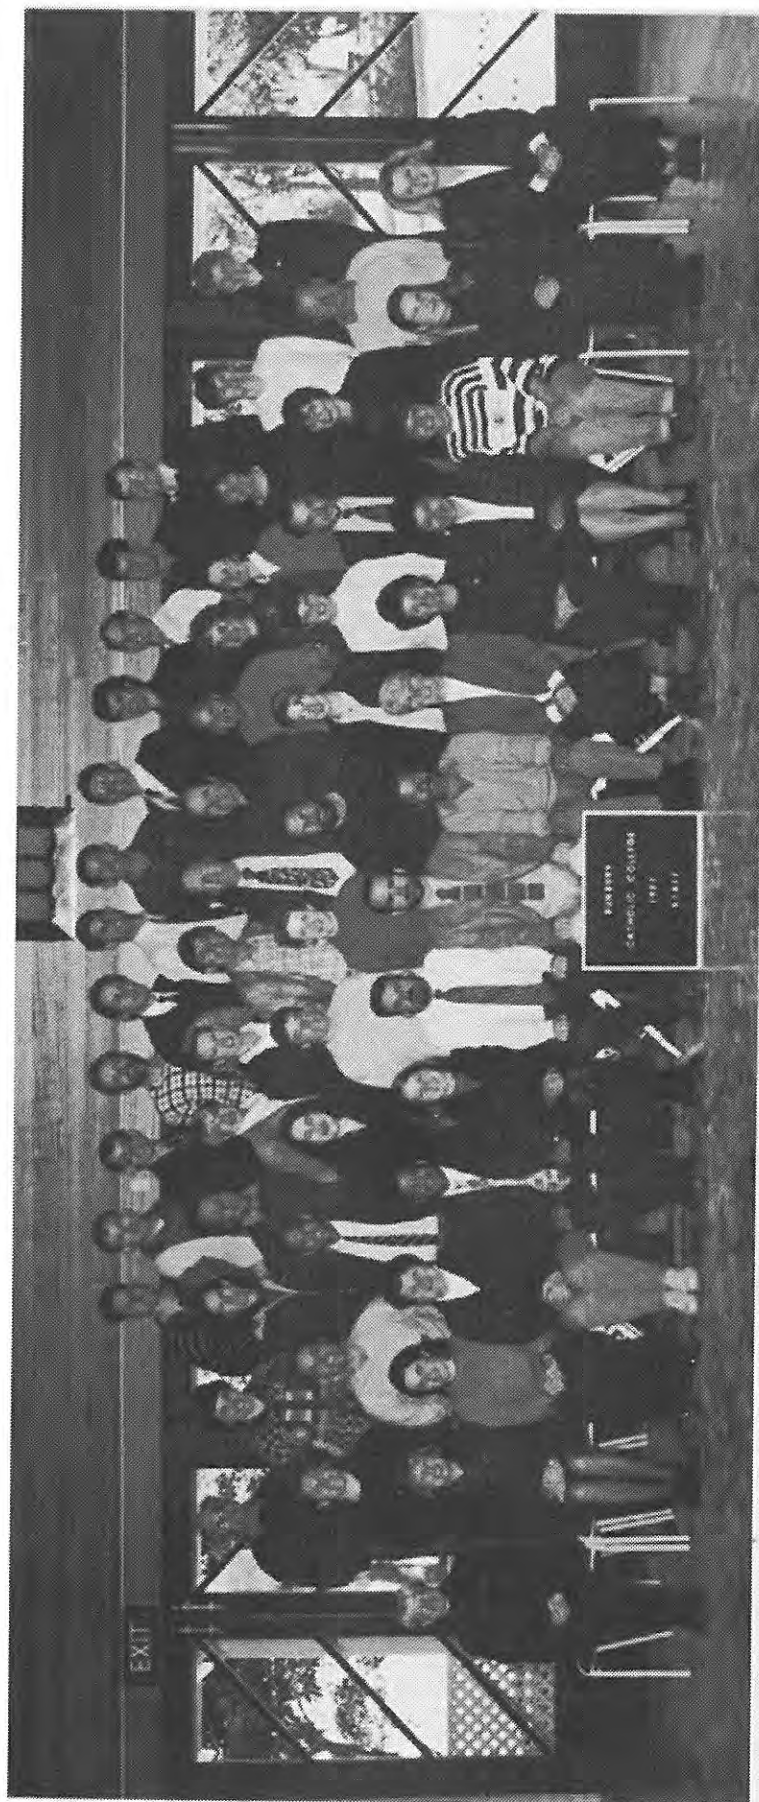

Good luck to the entire BCC community for 1998, especially the Year 12's of next year as they complete their schooling life, and good luck to all the staff and students who are leaving the college community, and we wish you all the best for the future.

Congratulations to everyone involved with BCC in 1997 for a fantastic year.

Mr Banks: A man on a Mission

The students stood tall, the teachers anxious, as the brown bearded man stepped out of his Falcon and approached Bunbury Catholic College. As of that moment, Mr Ivan (John) Peter Banks was no longer a stranger to his new school. He was the rock on which its ambition would be built.

With his career choices and qualifications, there was no doubt that Mr Ivan Banks had a desire to achieve. Over time that's what he did. After getting his Bachelor of Science degree at the University of Western Australia, Ivan decided that this wasn't enough. He wanted more out of his life. After realising this, he went on to earn his degree in maths, RE and computer teaching before graduating with his Masters in Educational Leadership from the University of Notre Dame. Thinking that ambition will only succeed with experience, Ivan's interests lead him to a variety of teaching locations.

He first tested his determination at St Joachim's High School in Perth. In 1983-84 St Joachim's was an all girls' school. Mr Banks enjoyed this job immensely. As 1985 came around Mr Banks decided that his goal had been achieved, so he set himself some more. Ivan wanted to travel. This aim led him to a teaching job at an all boys' school called Listan College in Auckland, New Zealand. Due to the sudden death of his father, Ivan returned to Australia in 1986 and again decided to try something new. This desire took him to St Norbert's College, a co-ed school in Perth. From 1987-89 Mr Banks returned to St Joachim's where he was promoted to Head of the Maths Department. Ivan's favour for co-ed schools then lead him to a teaching job at Ursula Frayne Catholic College. During the period of 1990-91 he earned the title of Deputy Principal. Finally in 1997 Ivan Peter Banks' dream was fulfilled. Twenty six years after deciding to become a teacher at the age of eleven, Mr Banks has taken it one step further and become the Principal of Bunbury Catholic College.

Like the rest of his life, Ivan has moved to Bunbury on a mission. This time it's to do the best he can to improve Bunbury Catholic College. Ivan's first impression of Bunbury Catholic College and it's students was at BCC's 1996 speech night. This led him to believe that the students at BCC were very friendly and talented. In the near future Mr Banks proposes to focus on the students at BCC wearing their uniform correctly and with pride. He also plans to promote BCC in the wider community. Mr Banks believes that as long as Bunbury Catholic College is a better place when he leaves than it was when he came, he has succeeded in completing his mission.

Exchange Students

All the way from ...Sweden

During this year you might have noticed that BCC has hosted a couple of exchange students. I was one of them and I arrived here in January from a wintry Sweden, from negative 20 degrees to positive 40.

I found Australia a very nice, beautiful place and in some ways quite similar to Sweden. Noting differences is interesting but it is very important to do this carefully and objectively - not comparing which one is 'the better'.

It was also a great pleasure to get to know the distinctive Australian character. You sure are a weird mob in many ways and I will have to search long to find a friendlier and more hospitable one.

I will bring an uncountable number of memories and experiences back home and I sure will miss things like the beaches, Vegemite and footy - which must be the best sport in the world (after ice hockey of course:)

I would like to thank firstly the College for hosting me during this year in such a hospitable and generous way, and also the students and staff who helped me make this year such a great success. I will go home with the hope to soon return to this magnificent country.

Cya!

Christian Haglund

And ...Canada

This was my first time visiting Australia, but it for sure won't be my last. I love it here. The people are so funny and friendly. Even though I have only come for six months I've learned a lot about Australia, especially the Australian bush (Outward Bound).

I will bring home to Canada all the new Australian slang and great memories of my time here.

I wish everyone the best of luck and hopefully you will come visit me in Canada to experience our freezing winter (which is nothing like yours).

Don't Forget Brazil...

To come on exchange was the biggest and most important decision I have ever made. I think the interest in learning another culture, language and also meeting other people made me choose to spend a year overseas.

To come to a different country and leave behind everyone I knew wasn't an easy thing to do. Especially to come to a place with a different language where I didn't know anyone and often had to adjust to a different culture.

I am living with the Pardoe family in Boyanup which has been good and now I think that I can really say that I have got two families!

One of the best things I did this year was go on Outward Bound. Even though we had a hard time I just loved it! Every time I think about all I learnt during those ten days I think that I am very lucky to have had this opportunity. I proved to myself that I can always go beyond what I think my limits are.

Many people ask me what expectations I had about Australia. Even though I was trying to not have any expectations, I found that I actually did have some.

Australia is more similar to Brazil (my home country) than I thought. Every time I thought about this country the words koalas, kangaroos and surf come to mind.

Almost Too Late

The years together have been far too short-although I am only now
at such an age
to realise
the full impact of a true
familial relationship.
The laughing, joking and
secret smiles
we shared are long gone and shrouded in that eternal but ever fading
world known
as memory.
Why didn't I take the time to realise that my Dziadek was not immortal- would not always be there to help me along?

Is that why now
I feel such a sense of urgency that I need to tell him how I feel?
I love Dziadek and I want you to know that
whatever happens,
I'll always be
your little granddaughter-
your little 'Kazia'- and that those precious memories
we've chalked up together over these few short years
will always remain
some of the fondest
that I will ever recall..

LONELINESS

A black monster which has risen from the depths of the end of the earth and chosen you as its meat and in doing so forces you away from those who you care about. Or is it the other way around? Does it force those who care about you to turn away from you? It creates a void that can never be filled and in filling its need for sustenance, it deprives you of yours. You're stuck in the limbo of loneliness where it's everyone for themselves and you're all alone and starving for the attention that is taken away as the monster consumes your energy and power in its lust for greed and misery...

DEPARTMENT REPORTS

The BCC VIP Report

The Bunbury Catholic College Vocational Interest program addresses the continuing need of our post compulsory students to attain the best vocational education possible. Entry to the program is by selecting and invitation, it requires a high level of commitment from the Year Eleven and Twelve students chosen.

Seventeen Year Eleven students formed the core group for this year's program which required a commitment to additional year eleven courses whilst maintaining a full Year Eleven study program. Participants were able to participate in two different courses:

Structured Workbased Learning course content is based on 33 generic workplace competencies. A selected workplace trainer provided opportunities for competency skills to be developed and assessed at a workplace standard. A minimum time commitment of 15 days or 120 hours were required. Successful participants in this course achieved completion of seven Curriculum Council approved courses. Lee-Anne Bickley, Bronwyn Blackburn, Catherine Donnan, Sam Edmonson, Paul Paonni, Vincent Panetta, David Pugh, Elizabeth Read and Beth Williams are the students in this course.

Building and Construction Course has content based on National Building and Construction modules that are delivered at a purpose built live work training centre managed by Group Training South West. A minimum time commitment of 30 days or 240 hours are required. Successful students in this course could complete eight courses with the addition of NBC modules where competency is achieved. Robert Bray, David Dwyer, Simon Russo and Ben Selkirk are completing the course.

The success of this years program has been evidenced by improvement of the students enthusiasm, self esteem and confidence. The successful completion of additional courses as well as development of real workplace skills will greatly enhance their prospects of entry into the workforce, TAFE or further training.

Peter Selby

Vocational Interest program Coordinator

"This year I was involved in the Vocational Interest Programme, which meant that I spend 5 days a term at workplace training.

I received references for my resume. Another advantage is that I have also completed an additional course called Structured Workbased Learning.

I would recommend the VIP programme for any students who plan to study non-TEE subjects in Year 11."

Beth Williams

"This course in particular is designed to further our education in the building trade whilst developing our own personal skills. It covers everything from plumbing to bricklaying to gyprocking and I strongly recommend this course to anyone interested in the building trade, as they also employ many of their trainees."

Robert Bray

Science

110 students from Years 8-12 entered the Australian Schools' Science Competition. As usual we obtained some very good results, particularly our year 8's who achieved at a very high standard. The top students in each year were:

YEAR 8:	Sammy Jo Reimers	top 5%
YEAR 9:	Melissa D'Ath	top 10%
YEAR 10:	Fiona Simmonds	top 3%
YEAR 11:	Daniel Pedalina	top 7%
YEAR 12:	Sandra Wishhart	top 10%

Some of our students will be heading off to go to our summer schools around the country during the holidays. Halinka Lamparski has been chosen to go to the National Youth Science Forum in Canberra and Michael Martella will be heading off to Brisbane for the BHP National Engineering Summer School. Craig Jennings is going to the Goldfields for the Australian Student Mineral Venture and Karen Sneddon, Mellissa D'Ath, Natalie Filep and Natasha Scott will be attending the Siemens Summer School at the Edith Cowan

University in Bunbury. I congratulate all these students for their achievements in the competition and for their selection for these summer schools.

The new enrichment units introduced in 1996 have been well received by year 9 and 10 students. Students studying Unit Curriculum can now choose from a diverse range of enrichment units such as Astronomy, Electronics, Forensic Science and Marine Biology. A new unit will be added next year; Unit 5.5 Introductory to Robotics, which will teach the basic principles of robotics using motorised and computer controlled lego dacta in small groups.

Lastly I would like to wish Miss Twaddle a happy 12 months' leave next year, visiting Africa, Europe etc. I hope she returns as invigorated and full of energy as she leaves us.

Biology Camp

The day before we left Mr. Stewart said be at school by 8.15am otherwise we will leave without you.

He turned up at 8.45am. When we finally squashed into the bus, we left. When we reached our destination we all claimed our chalets and we were all pretty excited because we had T.V.'s a toilet, a fridge and a MICROWAVE, a real treat after Outward Bound.

The first day was spent working in the bush transecting and measuring quadrants.

In the late afternoon, we set up our traps and took a leaf and soil sample.

After dinner, we were free to go to our chalets. Everyone stayed up most of the night. The next morning we had breakfast and went out to the dam with our canoes. Here, we measured the width of our part of the dam, calculated the depth of the part and took water samples. This was quite fun especially after we finished and just mucked about.

Saturday night we all stayed in Mr. Stewart's chalet until approx. 11.30pm analysing our samples under microscopes etc. We were all pretty tired. Davina got her revenge by hanging up Peter's boxers on the curtain rail (we still don't know how you got a hold of them Davina?). When we got to our chalets we had heaps of fun especially the girls in my chalet who had a ball turning everyone's power off.

(By the way did you catch the Psycho Ryan?) The next day we were up early, had breakfast and went to the Laterite ridge dam to study the bush up there.

Everyone was very tired and hot but we got the work done. After this we had lunch and soon after we packed up and headed off home.

On behalf of all the Year 11 Biology students, I'd like to say thank you to Mr. Stewart and Miss. Love for a fun and educating weekend.

Oh!!! and one word for the class, OSAKI !!!

Maths

During the course of the year students were given the opportunity to participate in a number of mathematical events.

Two junior and two senior teams competed in the IBM sponsored "Have Sum Fun" competitions. This annual event, conducted in Perth, attracts some fifty schools in each of the two divisions. All teams performed even though they were operating under the disadvantage of having to travel from Bunbury.

The success of these competitions in Perth suggested that a similar event could be held in Bunbury. An inaugural South West Junior Mathematics Competition was also held at the College during the second term. We hope that this can continue to grow in support and popularity in future years.

Year 8 students were offered an opportunity to complete an entry for the Math-O-Quest competition. After selection within the school, entries were submitted for statewide judging in Perth. Joanna Lamparski and Nicole Birch were judged best in the Country entry. Well done girls.

Approximately 130 students competed in the Westpac Mathematics Competition this year. Three students scored High Distinctions, 11 scored distinctions and 41 scored Credits. Craig Jennings from Year 10 achieved the highest standardised score in the school and was ranked in the 99th percentile.

High Distinctions:	Distinctions:
Nicole Birch	Adam Halligan	Emma Shardlow
Stephen Goddard	Joanna Lamparski	David O'Brien
Craig Jennings	Warrick Thomas	Leighton Wright
	Hayley Thompson	David Myers
	Fiona Symmonds
	Daniel Pedalina
	Nathan Eaton

Math-O-Quest

Math-O-Quest is a state competition run by the Mathematics Association of Western Australia (MAWA). It involves students from years seven to ten being given two topics and then they are required to answer a series of questions and/or investigating the topic.

The two topics given to year eight were. One to one hundred, where students were instructed to investigate patterns in a 10 x 10 square filled in with the numbers from one to one hundred. There was also the Mobius Band, where it was necessary to investigate properties and practical applications of the Band.

Nicole Birch (8J) and Joanna Lamparski (8J) chose the topic, the Mobius Band. A Mobius band is a strip of paper given a half twist and the two ends of the paper then stuck together. It has only one side and one edge. Conveyor Belts and recording tapes are made from the structure of the Mobius Band.

The project Nicole and Joanna produced won them the D.A Buck prize for the best country entry in Western Australia.

Practical And Creative

*Home Economics *Art *Music *Design and Technology *Business Studies

1997 has been a particularly great year for all concerned. We commenced the year by welcoming back all our staff from last year, and happily were able to include Mr. Podgorny into our Year 8 programme in Design and Technology.

Art

Ms. Love has led the way solidly in Art, throughout this year. From Year 8's through to Year 12's, students have enjoyed using the facilities for a vast range of processes. The enclosed 'extended' area allows classes to move more freely than in the past, and in full protection from wind, rain and sun. The Year 12 students participated in an 'Art Camp', which saw the production of a really impressive range of art work. Again, students were able to benefit from the extra motivation provided by Art Extraordinaire, which was held in August this year.

Painting the Bus shelters

Home Economics

Childcare - Technology and Fashion - Food and Nutrition: these have been the catch cries of courses within this area of College curriculum. Again, Mrs. Martella, Mrs. Cairns, Miss Standley and Mrs Horrobin have very keenly led many students through most substantial courses in the disciplines of Home Economics.

Students in upper school have again been challenged in many ways, not the least of which was the dinner, held in September of this year. A most successful event, and special congratulations to students and staff involved in this enterprise.

Making Pasta

Business Studies

Mrs. Carew and Mr. Wilson have worked very well with studies in the areas of business. Our college course called K.I.T. helps prepare students in lower school for the world of business, and these studies are followed in Year 11 by the new course called Business Information Technology. Also on offer are new courses of Digital Media and Information Systems. Students are well served with the technology on hand for these courses, as it represents the most up-to-date systems on offer in secondary schools.

Music

Activities in this area of the school are clearly observed through the students' activities, which are ongoing in and around the music rooms. Students have been most actively engaged in the production of music through keyboards, guitars and a range of percussion instruments. The music lab is something to really experience, as each student is able to enjoy the benefits of a keyboard that only he or she can hear (unless Mr. Martino chooses to listen in through the master headphone

Drilling for oil

control!). The entire set up is the result of a great effort by people such as Mr. Martino.

Design and Technology

This has been the first year in which staff and students have fully enjoyed our facilities, without the need to work in and around builders. The (building) planning that has taken place over the past few years has now been completed, and school activities have run very smoothly, thanks to cooperative students and the care of their respective class teacher. Thanks to Mr. Downes, Mr. Slater, Mr. Wilson and especially to Mr. Podgorny (Year 8), for their work in keeping all our activities operating smoothly and efficiently.

Action has thrived in the areas of wood and metal work, model making, jewellery and computer graphics. Evidence of these activities would have been noticeable through the pieces of gear brought home by students, and in the folios of work created in class, especially in computer graphics. Special thanks go to Craig Jennings and Nick Kemp-Downes for their effort in re-designing the layout of our school vision statement. This new layout will be evident in every classroom for 1998!

Finally

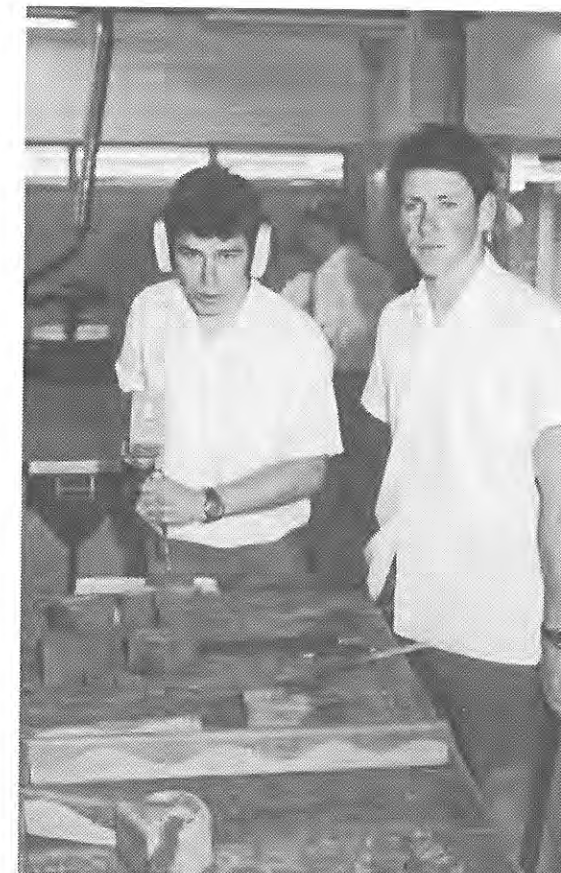

1997 has been another good year! However, we all have much to look forward to next year, and hopefully we will all continue to enjoy working together in our class groups. May you all enjoy a really great Christmas this year. Special thanks to all department staff for your tremendous efforts all year. May we all survive our end-of-year school break with ease and safety!

I wish a special farewell to all our Year 12 students, and to other students who will not be joining us next year.

Music

1997 has seen the establishment of the Inschool Instrumental Program. This involves inschool tuition for students who learn the saxophone, flute, clarinet and trumpet. This is a tremendous step forward for the music department because this program will help to develop the junior and senior bands. I would like to thank Mr. Alan Phillips (woodwind teacher) and Mrs. Nikkie Hair (brass teacher) for helping with this program. I would also like to thank the students who have worked hard at learning their chosen instrument and who have had the determination to keep working at it. Their efforts will pay off in the future and I hope many more students may have the opportunity to be a part of this program.

The Catholic Festival was a great success for the Music Department and for participating students. It provided an excellent opportunity for students to experience and develop performance skills. Congratulations to the solo performers Anita Haynes, Isabella Francis, Natasha Scott and Narelle Sharp who worked hard and performed to a high level. The Year Nine band did very well and received an outstanding performance certificate. Out of fourteen bands they came third which was an excellent achievement considering most of the performers were Year Eleven and Twelve students. Congratulations to Abbe May, Liam Slater, Tahlia Maslin, Raymond Chatt and Karissa Fedelle.

Another project the Music Department was involved in was the Combined Primary School Concert. Thank you to the students who helped with the rehearsals and the performances - Moana De Gooijer, Adam Perrella and Vincent Perrella. They all performed at an excellent level.

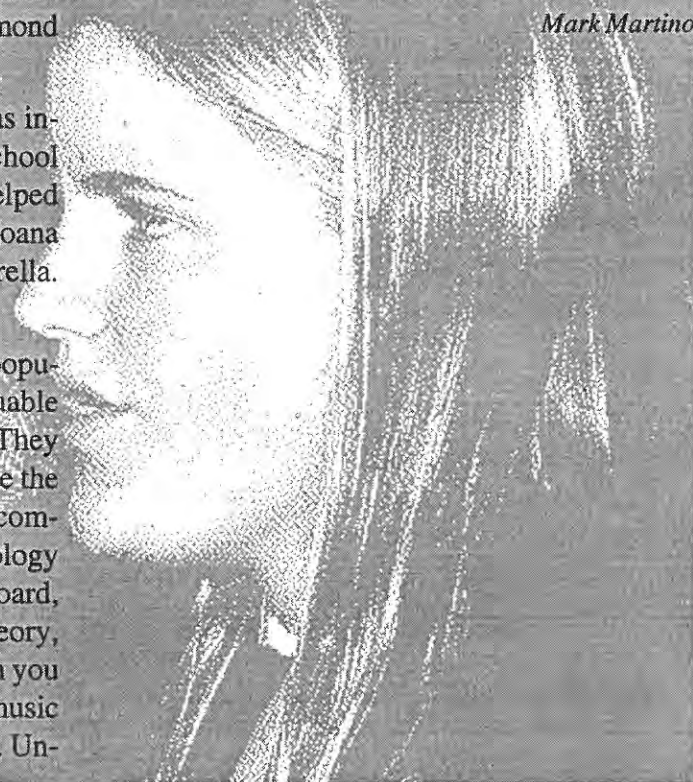

The keyboard laboratory has proven to be popular this year and students have gained valuable music keyboard knowledge and skills. They have also had the opportunity to experience the future technology for music, which is the computer and the music keyboard. This technology can assist students in learning the keyboard, developing their knowledge in music theory, aural training and composing music (when you play the music keyboard it produces the music notation instantly on the computer screen). Unfortunately, only one or two students can use the computer at any one time, however in the future it is hoped that more technology can be incorporated into the Music Department's keyboard laboratory.

The students involved in the string ensemble have made positive progress and it is encouraging to see so much enthusiasm for these wonderful string instruments. Bunbury Catholic College's string ensemble consists of five violins, a viola and a cello. We rehearse every Tuesday morning before school and we hope to perform in the near future. The Music Department is looking forward to enlarging the string ensemble by purchasing a double bass and extra violas and a cello. We will then be looking for other students to join our ensemble.

For the first time next year the Music Department will introduce a non TEE music unit called "Music in Society". This is an excellent opportunity for students to develop their music knowledge and skills to a higher level. The emphasis is on performance and students will study in year eleven the history of Rock and Roll, solo and ensemble studies (this includes music from the classical period), technology and music, studio work and recording music. This is an exciting venture for the Music Department and I know the students will find it very rewarding.

Mark Martino.

Dance

Dance featured strongly in the school's performing arts program this year. A group of 20 girls worked together to produce a dynamic piece for the Catholic Performing Arts Festival. The piece aimed to show the diversity of women and to celebrate this rather than shunning it. Choreographed by Heather McKernan and Cheryl Brown (Yr11) the girls received an Honourable Mention for their tremendous effort after performing at the Octagon Theatre in the grounds of UWA. Thankyou to all of those involved in the fundraising process we undertook in order to help us achieve this excellent result.

Drama

This year has been both an exciting and productive one for drama. Students have been exposed to a variety of dramatic forms and have been fortunate enough to participate in several quality performances. We began the year with an Easter reflection which a group of Year Eleven's rehearsed and presented for the school. Moving on from here students were fortunate to witness and participate in a Shakespearean performance and workshop presented by the Victorian actress Vanessa O'Neil. Utilizing skills already learned and those obtained in their drama classes students from Years 9-12 either devised or workshopped pieces for the Cultural Night held late in second term. The night was a huge success and provided many of the students with an opportunity to present their plays to an audience before travelling to Perth to compete in the Catholic Performing Arts Festival. The Catholic Performing Arts Festival saw 55 students travel to Perth on two separate evenings to present three plays alongside students from many of Perth's Catholic Colleges. The students did extremely well and received two awards for their work: an Honourable Mention for the Year Nine piece "This is How We Want To Live" and the Zenith Award for excellence and participation in the spirit of the Festival (an all round award).

In October the Year 11&12 drama class participated in the English Speaking Board Examinations which asked the students to devise from scratch a one-person show which was linked in some way to the life and works of a playwright of their choosing. The students' work was received very well and was both creative and professional in its delivery.

In 1998 drama aims to increase its presence in the school by maintaining its professional attitude towards this popular form.

Year Twelve Art Camp

This year, ignoring tradition and stepping forth into unknown territory, the Year Twelve Art students went to Wellington Mills to become one with their inner-selves. The camp consisted of much eating, sleeping, fraternising with Cathedral Grammar students (with whom we shared the experience), wandering in the bush looking for inspiration, drawing naked people, sketching kangaroos, sleeping in the sun and other such silliness. The result of all this frivolity was the production of an excellent collection of drawings, paintings and doodles, from which several major paintings were developed.

All in all, a fairly relaxed weekend was had, and we brought back a veritable plethora of masterpieces.

Invasion of the South Terrace Cafe Strip

Early in February, when the sun was still burning and the flies were still trying to get up the nearest nasal passage, the ever intrepid Year Twelve Art class spent a day lazing about the cafe strip in Fremantle. Armed with sketchbooks and every imaginable drawing implement, we sat in one coffee shop after another, observing the fascinating array of people who wander down South Terrace on a Sunday morning. The purpose of our mission was not only to sit around and socialise, but we effectively managed to do a lot of this pursuing our primary goal. Our primary goal, of course, was to watch, draw, sketch and paint the culture and atmosphere of Fremantle on a Sunday, complete with all the hippies, bikies, yuppies, punks, mobile phone addicts and purple-haired Dalmatian owners who form part of that scene.

The end of the day saw us returning to the more serene, conservative surroundings of the Victoria Street cafe strip, with a number of fabulous little sketches in hand which we then used to produce our finished art works.

Social Science

1997 saw another year of great activity within the area of social science. Staff have worked extremely hard to make the area of social science come alive at the Bunbury Catholic College.

A review of the 1996 saw the restructuring of the assessments offered in unit curriculum. Problem solving assessments were introduced. Students are required to think critically and apply knowledge to the real life situations. This development was indeed a challenge to both students or teachers. Teachers developed both creative and relevant assessments, whilst students needed to draw from many resources and research techniques to develop an appropriate response.

1997 saw the introduction of a new syllabus in Year 12 History and the second year of the new syllabus in Year 11. This is very exciting as a different style TEE paper will be sat this year. The style of learning has an emphasis on primary source material. Source material is referred to in assessing the nature of society and changes occurring within society. The TEE paper will include 2 sections. Within each section a document investigation will be carried out and an essay completed.

As a department, the staff make a great effort to broaden the minds and experiences of our students. This year has been no exception with a variety of opportunities being made available.

Entering students in competitions is one way to provide academic extension. In 1997 students have been involved in Australian Geography Competition (yr 9-10), AMP Investments Economics Competition (Yr 11-12) and the Asia Wise Competition (Yr 8-10).

Through this involvement, our students are able to compete against their peers on a national level and hopefully discover the potential of their academic capability.

Students in Years 9 and 10 performed particularly well in the Australian Competition:

TOP 10% IN AUSTRALIA: Chris Matthews, Craig Jennings, Simon Dean, Emma Forrest, David Myers, Craig Goddard, Joseph Fortune, Eva Turbitt.

TOP 20% IN AUSTRALIA: Letea Cavander, Jenny Mountford, Chris Williams, Justin Mills, Linda Spinelli, Elliot Gibson, Tahlia Maslin, Fiona Simmonds.

TOP 30% IN AUSTRALIA: Brooke O' Kane, Marie Strelein, Candice Nietrzeba, Elise Stephen, Leighton Wright, Brendan Shoulders, Brett Pearce.

Fourteen of our Year 11 and 12 Economics students participated in the AMP Investments Economics Competition. The competition was open to all high school students in W.A and we congratulate the students who took part in the competition, especially CHRIS GIBSON who achieved a high distinction (top 5% in W.A)

Recently 100 Year 8-10 students competed in the Asia Wise Competition. While the results have not been returned yet, the students entered into the spirit to learn more about Asia and its importance to Australia.

Numerous guest speakers have been into our classrooms to provide the students with additional information about issues such as solutions to the erosion of the back beach, town planning in Bunbury, the W.A parliamentary system and the role of police in society.

Excursions occurred in many year levels to enrich our students' learning. Year Eleven History students visited the Holocaust Institute in Perth. During this visit students were exposed to a survivor's account of events during WWII, All Year Nine students travelled to Fremantle. Students visited the Fremantle Gaol, Maritime Museum and took part in a Historical Walk throughout Fremantle. Year 11 and 12 Practical Geography classes visited many locations in and around Bunbury to see first hand how and why Bunbury takes on its current form and analyse the direction and need for change within the Bunbury area.

Well done to all students for their efforts both inside and outside the classroom. To all the Social Science staff, I thank you for your support and continued efforts in making Social Studies relevant for your students.

YEAR 12 COORDINATOR

1997 started with Mrs. Kath Hogan coordinating our Year 12's while I was on long service leave. I'd like to take this opportunity to thank Mrs. Hogan for the wonderful job she did in Term 1 as well as her continued efforts throughout the year, in particular, her assistance with the Senior Ball and Leaving Jumpers. They were above the call of duty and much appreciated.

Thank you also to the Year 12 homeroom and support staff, namely Eugene DeLima, Peter Hogan, Carmel Forrest, Sharon Millington, and Nan Martella for the effort and care they have given our Year 12's this year.

Throughout 1997 there have been memorable events that have fostered a spirit of friendship and community amongst our students. The Year 12 Retreat held at Baldivis and Serpentine was outstandingly successful.

Students participated well and got into the spirit of the Retreat.

Special thanks to Mrs. Christine Shoulders and her band of parent helpers for the smooth running, wonderful cooking and community involvement that made the Serpentine site such a happy place.

Another successful highlight for many of our students was the Senior Ball held early term 3. Congratulations to all members of the Ball Committee for organising such a successful event. Special mention to Jeannie Love for her outstanding contribution to the success of the event.

We have been blessed this year with a wonderful group of student leaders. All carnivals have been run smoothly and on time due to the organisational abilities of our House Captains. The Student Representative Council has been active in its participation of assemblies, masses, and its behind the scenes involvement in many decisions affecting the student body.

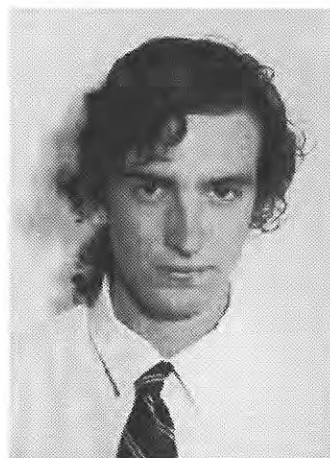

In particular Kate Matthews and Nathan Eaton are to be congratulated on the way they have lead the school this year. They have fulfilled their roles with distinction and justified the faith placed in them by those that elected them.

Finally, to the "Class of 97", you have all been wonderful ambassadors for our school and role models for our younger students. I wish you well in the future and look forward to welcoming you back in the years ahead to tell us of your thoroughly deserved and well earned success.

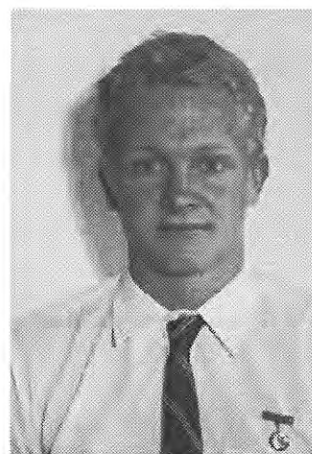

Eric Douglas.

YEAR 12 RETREAT

There were only a few times during year 12, that the whole year group had a chance to relax and have a quiet-free holiday from school and study. In the weeks leading up to the semester one exams, most students probably thought that the hard slog was never going to end, but our reward for all the hard work came in the form of the retreat. The retreat was a great way to remind us all of what was really important. Friends, music, games, skits and some "interesting" wake up calls, created an extremely rewarding time of consolidation and rest. Thank you to all the parents and teachers who organised the 1997 retreat.

REFLECTIONS OF A YEAR TWELVE STUDENT

The question upon everyone's lips is, "Does Mr. DeLima shave his legs?"

The shiny, taught and terrific complexion of those wonderfully sexy pins suggest constant waxing, but the answer to this puzzling question may never be known....

In light of this question, Mr. DeLima was quoted as saying "Women need greater representation in parliament," which begs another question "What does Mr. DeLima have in his wardrobe?"

The answers to these questions lie only in the mind of this great man, or supposed man..

lovely People

Here are some questions which you may wish to ask the Year 12's of 1997 if you ever bump into them in the future:

Marcus Pelusey: "Is lighting up aerosol cans a good idea?"

Simon Kobelke: "How many nickels do you have?"

Sonia Ietto: "Did you intentionally moon Mr. Jones?"

Luke Resta: "What is a bushman's blow?"

Rhima Ghandour: "What is a git?"

Chris Gibson: "Say mate..."

Michael Wilson: "Can you give me a smiley?"

Jay Williams: "Are all those pens yours?"

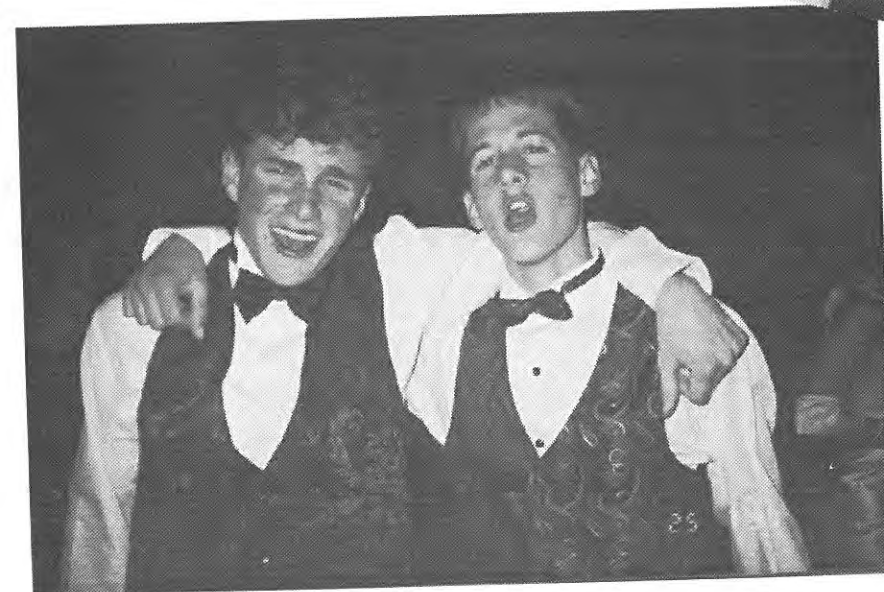

Naomi Strelein: "Who is the most important person in the world?"

Tamra Frontino: "Who is Ashley?"

I'm sure they will be very keen to answer these questions for you!

YEAR TWELVE BALL

YEAR 11 CO-ORDINATOR

The start of 1997 saw our present Year 11 students commence the final two Years of their schooling, and within weeks a large number decided TAFE was where their futures lay. As term one went on students stood up to the challenges of Year 11 and any apprehensions they may have had, were replaced with the will to work hard and a desire to succeed.

The retreat was based around the theme of service, which took a very hands on approach and while talking about our faith is good, to put it into practise is what Christ truly called us to do. The response from the outside community was overwhelming.

It was also a great pleasure to accompany the students on Outward Bound. They were a credit to themselves and their parents. Once again Outward Bound proved to be an enjoyable and rewarding experience.

The SRC, made up of ten students voiced the views of the Year group and pushed our mission cause. This Year students set their sights on raising $1000 toward the O'Grady Health Centre in the Grandhipuram slums in Bangalore India.

The students who made up the house vice-captains did a fantastic job assisting the Year 12's and all need thanking for their efforts.

As always the students had the support of a very talented Year 11 staff, whether that was a subject or homeroom teacher. To Rod Slater, Nigel Snelson, Jeannie Love, Peter Selby and Graham Jones, thank you for your time and patience. To the support staff of Marcus Wilkinson, Anna Cairns, Daryl Carew and Andrea Miller. Thank you for stepping in whenever we needed you. To everyone who played a part in the lives of the Year 11's of 1997, thanks. I would also like to wish all students whether returning to Year 12 or leaving us, all the very best in the future. In closing I hope all families have a safe and holy Christmas and I look forward to 1998.

YEAR 11 RETREAT

Service, what is your definition of service?

This was the question we faced as we entered the hall and after many questioning looks and blank faces, we started to contemplate as it soon came into our heads that the whole idea behind the day was to get jobs done around the school. And we were wrong, absolutely wrong, how could we think such things when we had to pick up rubbish, weed cricket pitches, plant gardens, clean the buses and help out doing things around the school. Followed by wrapping lollies in cellophane and making thank you cards for the day ahead and analysing newspaper articles we were all cheered and expectant at what was to come. Sadly, the bell rang and we were sent home with heads hanging at the end of such a day still wondering what the hell service was. Oh well, there was still one more day to come to try and figure that out.

The next day we were on our own. Out there to face the world of "service" by ourselves. What were we to do? Some went to older relatives, others to Primary Schools while others babysat (ever so busy!). We returned to school at lunch-time enlightened, we knew what service was!, at least that's what some of us thought. "Service is slave labour" one commented, "NO" said another "It's doing something you don't want to while another watches". Well we had tried hard - enough and settled down to a soothing year mass in the Chapel. Overall the retreat was, well, different, but we believe everyone had a good time in the end. After all, it's not everyday you can have two days off school.

Cameron Lindberg

Amongst other activities the retreat day was spent washing cars and gardening.

THOUGHTS FROM 11D

Well, well, well 11D
What a mighty place to be
With a magnificent Michael at the front
Hurrying us to class with a shunt.
Stephen and Kim with their soccer balls
With Scott, like to start all - in balls
Then they pick on little old Dom
So Janene plans a nuclear bomb.
Rebecca who likes to eat 'bananas'
David Kershaw loves those saltanas
Tammy the giggler of our clan
Halinka is storming up a terrible plan
Kieran and Clinton are always late
Emily bakes a chocolate cake
Kelly Reid the footy fan

11L REFLECTIONS

11L, Back safe and sound
Triumphant we made it through the Outward Bound
Heather - our lovely dancing queen
Wherever she is, Cheryl will be seen.

Lorenza and Laicey, we could've killed 'em
They developed a crush on a young man named
... 'Kevin'

Jonno and Alex as convenient can be didn't make it through OB because of injury.

Steve said "Brad kicked his toe and started to cry"

Steve wouldn't admit it was one big lie.
Aoife and Adrienne will never part they love each other because they've both got good farts - I mean hearts

Sergeant Frisina we must confess
he rescued every damsel in distress
Todd said "I'm hungry, I want some more"
Seconds for him is never a chore.

David Shinner - Oh what a man!
Davina never stops fighting with Pete
And neither will ever admit defeat.
Vanessa and Mariana are here we think
Michael our resident artist on the brink
And as for Kelly Lake - well what a trooper
That's our homeroom - Super Dooper

Jemma and Gibbo our hockey queen and king
Liz and Aaron share an everlasting fling
For Tanya KFC is a family affair
All David (starer-spew) does is sit and stare.

Paul surprised us all with his humour
Pat wished he could be watching footy sooner.
Jodie usually quiet came out of her shell
We all hope Ryan was home doing well.

Kahlia was always the last one packed
Codey- bowel movements he lacked
Miss Love our fearless homeroom teacher
Dylan Reeves was our hygiene preacher

All in all some thought it was great.
This some others may debate.
Outward Bound left us glowing with pride
A feeling we could not hide

And so we penned this corny verse,
Oh wells'pose it could be worse.
"WOO HOO."

11S THE FIRST DAY

On the first day of year 11, God created 11S.
A mob of yahoos who were better than the rest.
It was Mr. Jones the chosen one,
who led us through semester one.
Mr. Jones said goodbye, then Reverend Selby.
Christian, the Swedish one, came in semester one.
Paul, the burnt one, came in semester one.
Lee-anne, the brick toe one, came in semester one.
Sam, the long-haired one, came in semester one.
Rob, the undie run one, came in semester one.
Kelly the surfy one, came in semester one.
Vinny the another - undie - run one, came in semester one.

Simon the shaven one, came in semester one.
Sian the Paddington Bear one, came in semester one.
Cathy the happy one, came in semester one.
Bronwyn the loud one, came in semester one.
Olivia the slacker—I really love P.E. one, came in semester one.
Emma the spaghetti one, came in semester one.
The Catherine the netball one, came in semester one.
David the Rex Hunt one, came in semester one.
Daniel the six foot under one, came in semester one.
Ben the "I don't suck on B---s", came in semester one.
Natasha the metho one, came in semester one.
Vicki the quiet one, came in semester one.
Maranda the travelling one, came in semester one.
Kirsty the "Why yes, yes I am" one, came in semester one.
Andrew the "I don't listen to anyone", came in semester two.
As you can see, we are a very talented tribe,
For party hire,
call.....131166.

It's OH SO QUIET (11R)

It's oh so quiet, shh shh, it's oh so still. Your all alone and so peaceful until...
Andrew's familiar yell breaks the silence,
"awwww Fish..."
Fish rolls his eyes (but without Andrew knowing of course).
"I wasn't even doing anything!"
Kelly chuckles to herself at his response... such dry humour... funny that she is hugging a tree at this stage.
"Natalie... Natalie..."
Natalie M can say nothing in response so just chuckles to herself.
"I hear that tree hugging is popular in this neck of the woods!"

Cam-the-man assures everyone that it is not and begins to smile, dreaming about the infamous ropes course. Then he sets off to do some spying behind a tree...
Sue-Ellen is holding an egg flip- yes, hilarious stuff. But alas, she is not laughing at that,
"I'm laughing at the cream!"
Meanwhile, Craig is uncovering a conspiracy,
"I swear that tanks clear these tracks!"
Craig is always thinking.
So is Michael as a matter of fact, but not about large army vehicles, about his work; stacking shelves...? price checking...? No, about his "truly attractive female" friends at Coles. Or maybe he is really thinking about Fish???
"What did fish do?"

Daniel-ever-alert-and-braced-to-take-action Scassera tunes into Michael's train of thoughts. He shoves Fish into some chairs just in case he has done something wrong.
"Daniel, don't do that, apologise!"
Louise puts her foot down (and squashes some moss people accidentally)... she can always scorch Daniel!!
"Excuse me Fish!" Daniel responds apologetically, a very rare occasion but it has been witnessed...well once anyway.
"That's better!"
Mean while Chris is kindly providing some imperative information to Karrin (new to our school so sometimes in need of such knowledge)
... such a helpful lad.
"now... sometimes our assembly masses are in foreign languages... actually today I think it will be in Latin!"
Karrin laughs yet still suspiciously glares at him out of the corner of her eye.
"Karrin I'm serious!"
Christina is serious too
"Guys, who's digging the toilet?"
No-one is surprised with this routine request... even though there are affluent toilet facilities around the school.
Patrick doesn't even hear Christina, he is doing what he loves. Yes Patrick is talking about football,
"...and then I got into Carlton's change rooms after the game..."
"Pat Shine, would you please quit your discussions about something unrelated, no doubt, to our morning prayer!"
Mr Slater appears to be unamused by Patrick's anecdote yet secretly day dreams that he will have a similar brush with fame.
"Who has got the football... I mean prayer?"
"I do Mr Slater!"
Nicole, renowned across the land for her ever present smile replies politely, removing herself from her conversation with Beth.

Having accepted the rejection, Beth turns and commences talking to, yep, you guessed it, Shane.
"thank you people, if you don't stop talking we will never get through these messages... and Shane will you please take off that ridiculous surgical mask?"
"But Mr Downes gave it to me!" Shane replies.
"I don't care, you've had enough attention, now take it off!"
Mr Slater is perhaps somewhat jealous of the attention that Shane has distracted from him???
Meanwhile, Jamie is removing his many bracelets, rings, necklaces...
"12, 13, 14... I think that's all!"
Jenny alerts him that it is not,
"Oh sorry, 15."
Jenny may seem quiet but when it comes to the crunch she isn't really!
In the next chair up Stephanie is discreetly decorating her hair with gold mascara...
"Kinky darling," Jamie comments (of course).
Janine, on the other hand, has slightly overdone decorating herself.. her shoes are green, her hands are green and she is leaving a trail of green behind her. However, she does look very artistic so we will let that pass unquestioned.
Following her green trail is Sam. He is a bit late and has a scratch on his knee,
"but it was all worth it because I did the best quadruple ollie over a 100m wall ever!" (hehehe I just exaggerated that a little bit).
How does this madness end? Well... it doesn't so I guess that this isn't as good as Bjork's version after all!

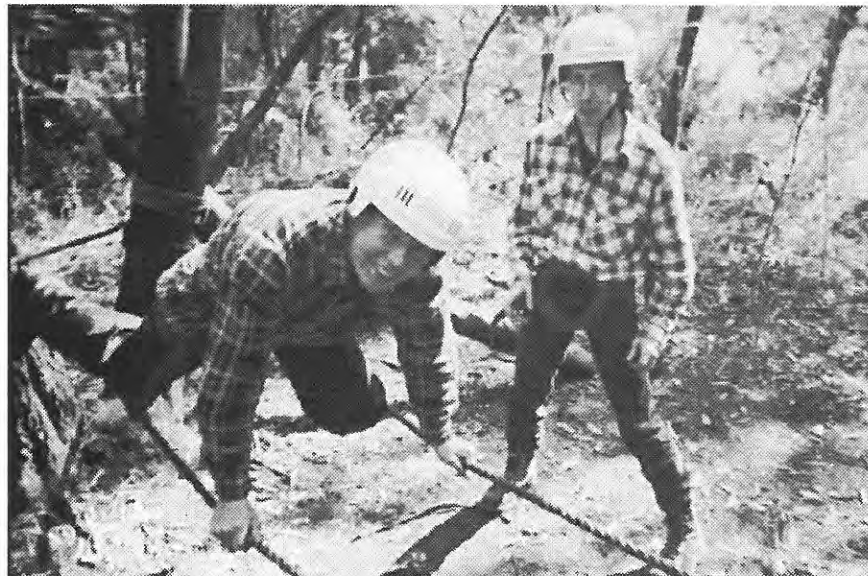

OUTWARD BOUND

We laughed. We cried. We swore. We hurt. We got frustrated. We shook with fear. We woke up in the middle of the night to find ourselves hugging a tree(?!). Yep, Outward Bound is quite an experience us Year 11's won't forget in a hurry.

In the very beginning, we stepped onto the bus for a five hour drive to Walpole. And it was good. We discovered how heavy our packs were to be, how far we were to travel on foot and in rafts... and it was not so good. The next eight days were to be filled with abseiling huge cliffs, climbing incredibly steep rock faces, to come out cut and bleeding, but finding ourselves conquering fears and taking on challenges we never knew we could. For some of us, walking on pieces of logs and wire seemingly 2mm wide, up trees 15m high, was quite an experience. But we soon forgot when we zipped down a flying fox at 50 km/h. Instructors provided us students with knowledge on how to stay dry under pieces of plastic during the night (although some of us didn't), how to make large amounts of powdered milk without lumps in it, how to steal the Quik without anyone finding out (not tomato soup powder?!) and how to perfect the moshing in the mud.

All in all most of us learnt something about ourselves and each others bad habits ... and most of all, to accept not having a shower for ten days and put up with the smell.

YEAR TEN 1997

Homeroom

CLASS OF 10N

Well, here we are the lovely class of 10N
Mrs Nichols is our teacher and our RE preacher.
There's Mark and Luke M. who like to tap,
While Michael and Martin would rather nap.
Chantelle and Tammi like to fight,
But Jamie and Anthony don't have the height.
Megan and Jessica like to talk,
Luke B. and David R. are like cheese and chalk.
Brooke and Davina like to joke around,
Quiet Emma and Stacey never make a sound.
Liam and Carlo are always acting the fool,
But David M. doesn't really like school.
Liz and Letea giggle with glee,
And Kathy and Reaghan are as happy as can be.
Brodie likes to surf and run,
While Nicole and Moya would rather have fun.
Patrick and Simon try to sing,
While Lorenz does his own thing.

10W's WOES

Linda and Catherine like to run,
and Elise who likes to have fun,
There is Greg who thinks nothing is fair,
and Bas who has no hair.

Also Nicci who is in a world of her own,
Mr. Wilson begins to groan.

Rebecca, Hayley and Jodi giggle with glee,
While Louise happy as can be.

Then there's Naomi who likes RE,
and Vince who avoids PE.

Nathan and Melissa are our Student Reps.
Craig J is always neat,

Anh can't wait to move his feet.

Karyn is seen on the turf,

Richard and Mat like to surf.

Daniel seems to get the blame,
and there's Justin - is he sane?

Lisa is always happy,

Louis is never snappy.

Aldo and Craig G well what can I say?

Sean can't wait till the end of the day.

There is Franco who speaks his mind,
and Christie who is so kind.

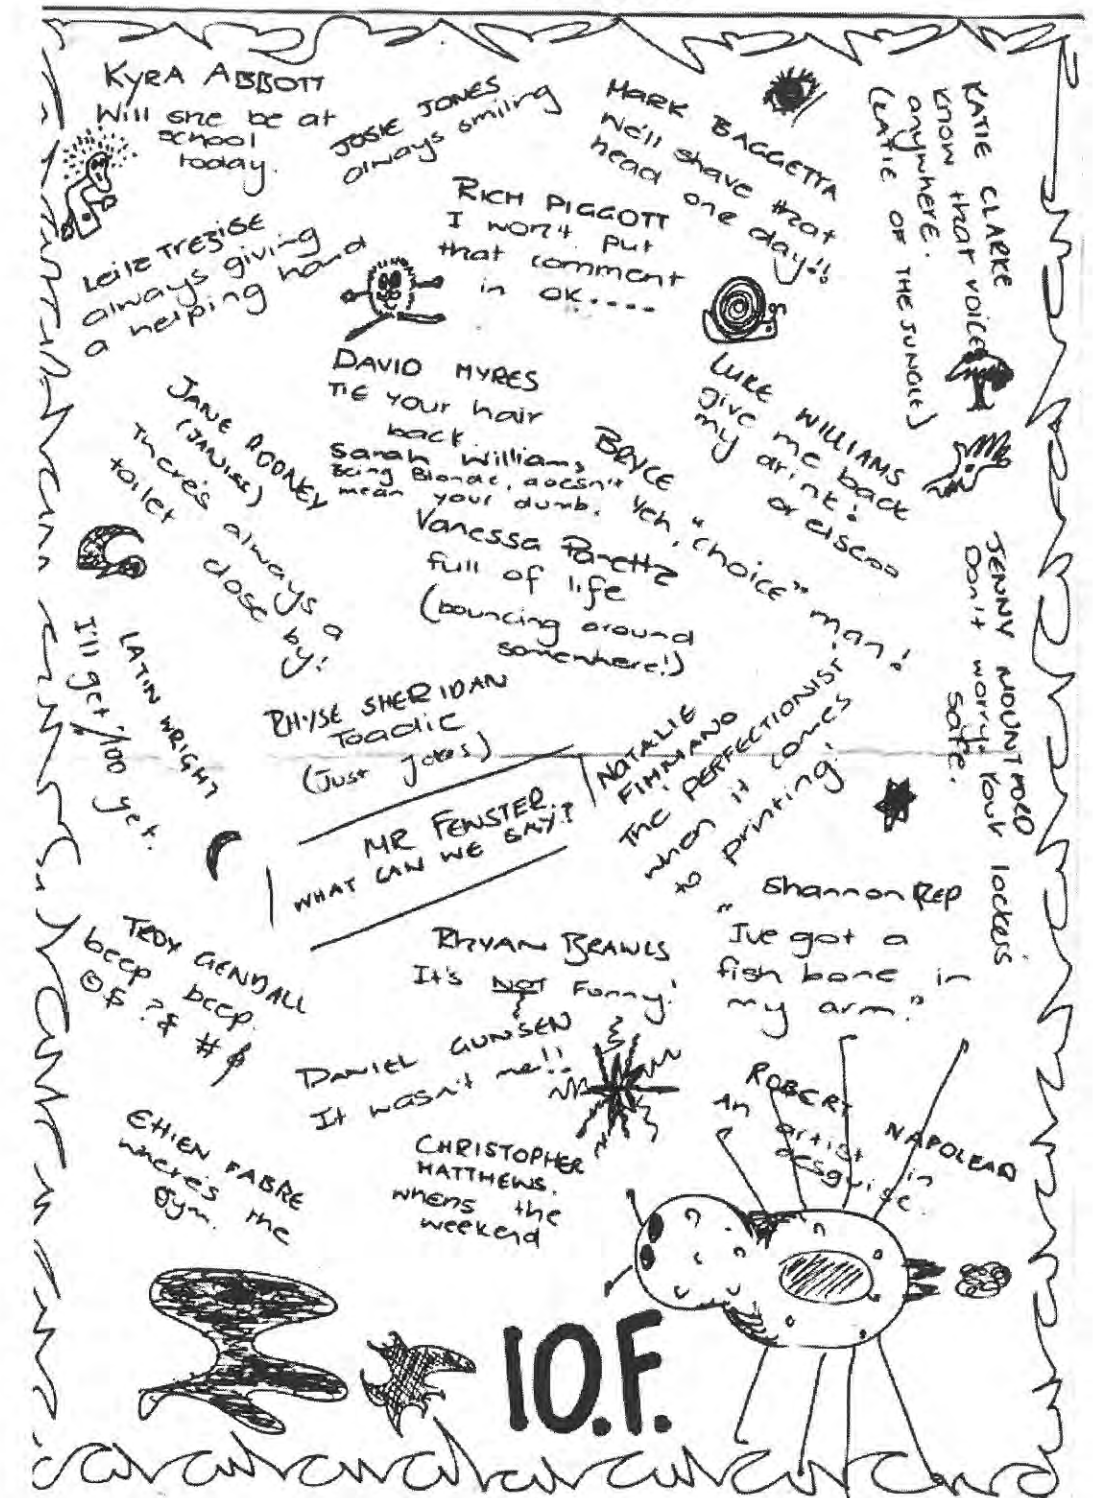

Michael is in our class,

Sorry we left you till last.

10M AT THE BEACH

10F AT LARGE

What a busy year!

A year of many challenges for the Year nine students. The transition from Year eight to Unit Curriculum can be, at times, very daunting. However, I have great pleasure in reporting the we have all passed with flying colours. The year nine class of 1997 carried out their responsibilities that reflects the Marist / Mercy traditions.

Consequently our Retreats, TAFT and whole school activities were very successful.

Thank you students for your support every day this year. Your efforts have not gone unnoticed and you can hold your heads high.

Thank you parents for your support every day this year with the uniform and attendance at interview nights.

Thank you Year Nine homeroom and affiliated teachers for your tireless efforts.

Please take care over the holidays, have a happy Christmas and best wishes for 1998.

Mr Greg Chipchase

9C HOMEROOM REPORT

When asked about his class
 Chipper's eyes were filled with fear.
 His only statement was
 "I was sane at the start of the year."

So now we'll tell you about our homeroom and the downfall of our teacher.
 We hope that in the magazine
 this article will feature.

Andrew is our Brunswick boy
 he travels on a bus.
 Scott is a quiet guy
 whilst Sonny loves a fuss.

Sarah is our Batman
 and this is our reason why
 She's got a sidekick Robyn who is always just near by.

Then there is Neil, who's our rep,
 he polishes his badge everyday.
 There's Antonette who loves to smile
 and laugh in every way.

Elise and Jada love some fun
 whilst Claudette is in for some too.
 Blake always likes to tell a joke,
 each day there's something new.

Aaron sits down the back,
 he sits next to Tim.
 Ainslee, Josey and Jessica,
 they talk a lot about...things.

Matt earned the nickname "Data",
 we don't know why at all.
 You have to look up at Clinton because he is so tall.

Then there is Brad,
 who is always there.
 And there is Steven Cowcher
 who always takes a dare.

Luke plays cricket,
 he can do it well.
 Robert is our surfy,
 we all think he's swell.

Tahlia loves Silverchair, present and in past.
 Sorry Tim Atherton,
 we've left you until last.

9D's STARS

If you were to cast a quick glance around 9D you could be forgiven for thinking you were in Hollywood.

Andrew Kealy is Godzilla, always too loud,
Scott Byrne is a warrior, always proud,
Rohin Higgins, a mad scientist, with gadgets and toys,

Chris Williams a super hero, who foils his ploys,
Kellie is Phoebe, the smiling one from Friends,
Kylie Kravainis, a costume designer, knowing all the new trends,

Chris Lee a mad bomber, driving police round the bend,

In 9D it's a ball, the mayhem never ends.

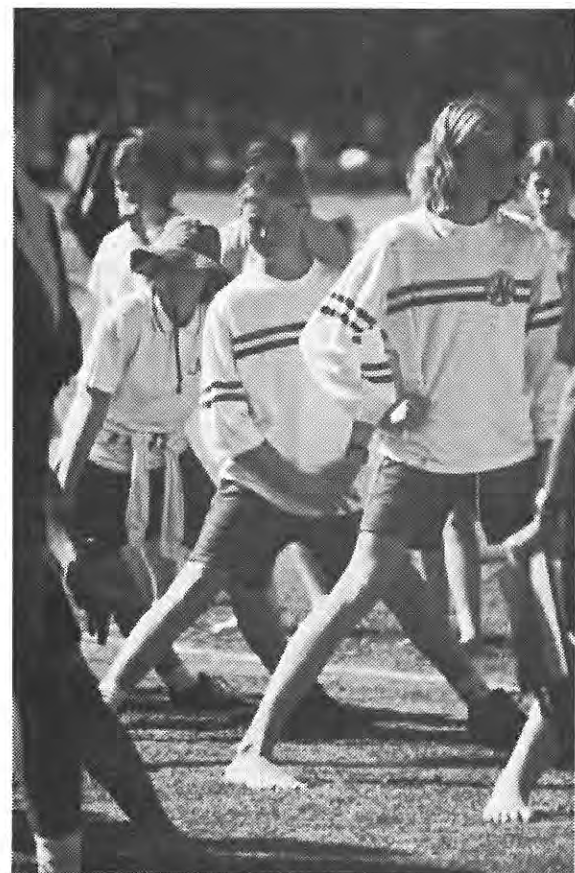

There's Len, the producer, never short of a word,
And the melodious Raelene, as sweet as a bird,
And Eoin, the rock king, smashing his guitar,
And snowy Gerald Hynes, a young child star,
Elliot is "Swarzenegger", saying "I'll be back",
Ewan a jungle explorer, finding new tracks,
Pia, a catwalk model, with style and grace,
If you come to 9D, you must handle the pace.

Simon is a spy, cunning, smart and quick,
Kym Maldon, a blonde James Dean, rebellious and slick,

Lauren is an agent, raking in the cash,
Diana, a singer, her next hit a smash,
Renae writes the script, creative and unique,
Rhaad, a private eye, will catch any sneak,
Stacey a royal queen, red hair full of fire,
Brian, a cowboy, a wild gunman for hire,
Jenea, a business executive, bound for success,
Rhenise, a romantic, in a brilliant wedding dress,
Blake, the leading man, makes female fans scream,

And Helen, lead actress, is many a man's dream,
Emily, a loose canon, you just never know,
Natasha, stunt woman, will give anything a go,

Mr Doyle is our director, a man in his prime,
His hair going grey, before it is time.
Well, that's 9D, our chaotic homeroom group,
Where you must be unique to join our troupe.

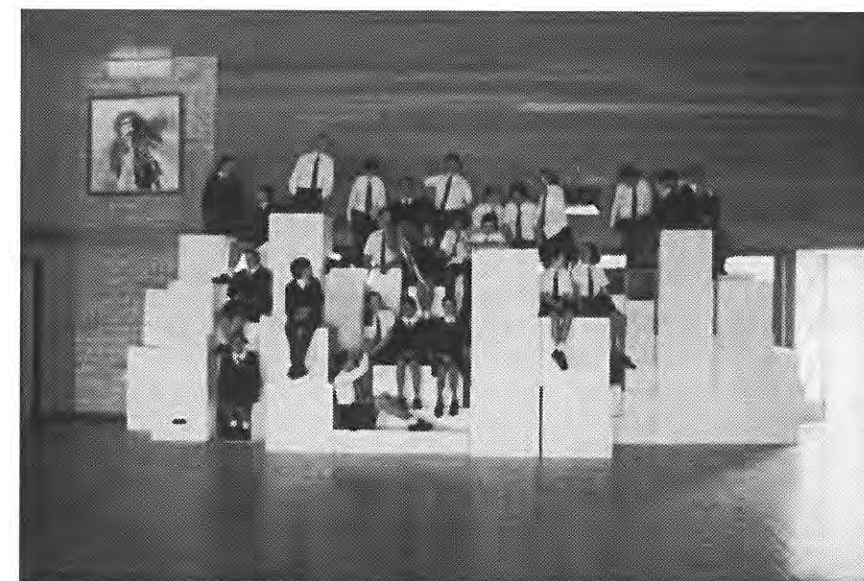

9T HOMEROOM REPORT

This year has been great for us. We have done many things such as social studies excursions to Fremantle, and our two retreats. Our retreats were based around helping others. We had two socials which were really good. The first social was all school bands but the second social was great.

Our four student representatives over the year were Rebecca King, Adam Spinelli, Johanna Resta, and Brendan Fantasia. Miss Twaddle's homeroom mission box was successful and we raised lots of money.

Many of Miss Twaddle's homeroom went to SWISSA, ACC, Catholic Performing Arts Festival and many more. We really enjoyed our year and look forward to many more.

ACTING YEAR 8 CO-ORDINATOR

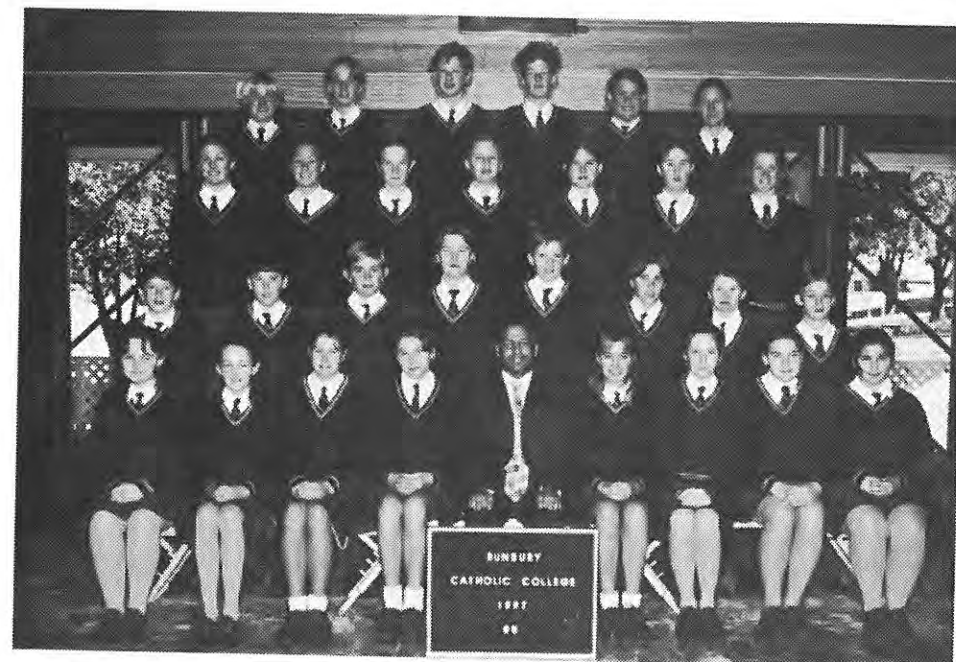

Year 8's, 1997 are a very mixed crew; bold ones and gentle ones, tolerant ones and ones who want to change the world. Some are studious and some are just now (in term 4) starting to understand the meaning of the word. Some are intent on pushing every boundary we set to see if it will break, while others are content to trust that the boundaries are useful ones. I am glad that there is room at B.C.C for all of these different kinds of people.

Most of the Year 8's have taken up the challenges offered by high school with enthusiasm and increasing confidence in their abilities to cope with change. The Retreat was successful in building our sense of Year 8 "family" and reminding us of the part we play in the wider community. Science, Social Studies, Maths and English competitions saw some Year 8's achieving at the highest national standards. Sports days and TAFT activities were tackled energetically (vivid memories of cheerful games, lots of Lunchtime Soccer teams, more than enough volunteers for snake relays and an impromptu girls vs boys tug-of-war which girls won). Exams were tackled bravely but seriously by most year 8's and first semester reports had many great comments about how hard students were trying. Year 8, 1997, were even prepared to sing without too much nagging being necessary.

Stepping into Mark Browning's shoes in second semester has been interesting. They're so large that walking on water (essential skill for a Year Co-ordinator) has been quite a dry experience. My sincere thanks go to Mark, Deirdre Horrobin, Rachael Moore, Amanda Spiers and Marc De Lima for their hard work and constant support over the year; my feet would be very wet without you!

8S POETRY

I'm sure that you would agree
 8S has a high degree
 They get top marks
 then act like larks
 Because they are all crazy.

8S is made up of twenty nine people
 They act like they are in the Brady sequel
 Some are weirdos
 Some are heroes
 But in the end 8S are just cool people.

8S is a really cool class
 We are always coming last
 Either the teachers have a sad
 or they really go mad
 And none of us would probably pass.

8S thought they were the best in Year Eight,
 They thought they were really so very great.
 They thought they were really cool,
 Browning kicked them out of the school,
 Now B.C.C. is so very straight.

We start at 8.35 in the morning
 just as our day is dawning
 Miss Spiers says "yeah"
 lets start with a prayer
 and you only have one warning.

8S, a class at B.C.C.,
 when asked to work they flee
 Chairs hit the floor
 as they sprint to the door
 That is how they are truly.

8J's STORY

This is a poem about my class, 8J-
 We're all slightly crazy in our own little ways.
 Sarah B. and Sarah R. are talking at the back,
 Then along comes Eboney and Renae; Ms
 Battista's going to crack.
 Nicole and Joanna discuss last night's homework
 While Anthony, Ben and Rob listen and smirk.
 Lauren, our poet, gazes though her glasses,
 She sees some inspiration and starts writing at her fastest.
 Jessica and Emma drool over the latest Hanson
 pictures,
 Jenna and Lisa look over all their hockey fixtures.
 During Maths is Michael's and Chris's time to muck around,
 They look around the class- someone to irritate
 they have found.
 Narelle and Joy are trying to concentrate;
 They bang their heads upon their desks trying to calculate
 the latest algebraic sum Mr Robb flung on the board.
 But Grant and Trevor C. just sit and grin- the answers they do not hoard.
 When the bell rings our class goes merrily off to Science.
 Mr Podgorny stands up and hopefully calls for silence.
 Leila and Alexis are the best of friends,
 And all during Science their talking never ends.
 Kathryn and Frances sit in front, tall and stout;
 They sit there to see the specimens Mr P. brings out.
 Ryan and Ben Reynolds sit at the desk on the side-
 They have lots of gadgets that they always hide.
 Josh, Mathew, Trevor and Colm Kavanagh
 Sit around and gaze at the stars.
 And when the 3.00 bell finally rings
 Ms Battista will tell us to collect our things.
 She'll say a few kind words, then let us depart,
 But she must forget that when tomorrow comes,
 Once again, a hectic day will start.

8B CLASS POEM

We are 8B as you know,
Our teacher Mr DeLima,
The human GI Joe
Frank and Matt are footy freaks,
Andre makes everyone shriek.
Emma's the one with the frizzy hair,
while Shae loves swinging on her chair.
Renae, Larissa and Mel are giggling,
Michelle Downes can't stop fiddling.
Ally and Pina are always calling people honey,
Mark is always asking for money.
Rebecca's sitting there, she's no threat,
Jessica McAuley is always hitting Ryan and Brett.
Sammy and Amy just can't keep quiet,
Jessie and Stephen will start a riot.
Justin Panetta's as small as a mouse,
Matthew Wilinski's as tall as a house.
Amanda Kirkby loves the Galleria,
Bradley Swarbrick's not hard to hear.
Ben and David love the guitar,
while to get to school, Monica travels far.
Chris Jones always gets top of the class,
Travis has no trouble thinking fast.
I hope you like our Year 8 flock,
Next year come and visit us in the Year 9 block.

8M ANGELS

We are 8M, hear us roar,
Lead by our fearless leader Miss Moore.
Brett and Paul seem really small,
To Matthew who's really tall.
Katerina and Melissa are really shy,
Matthew F's the loudest guy.
Byron and Angelo are pretty smart,
Danielle is good at art.
Tiarka" It wasn't me "Hampton
Louise I'm really from Rockhampton!
Tarra and Jason are really quiet,
Suzanne and Emma could start a riot.
Yvonne and David like to yell
Sarah's always waiting for the bell.
Martha is our class' Hanson lover,
Deborah has more than one brother.
Tom and Luke don't say a lot,
James is reallyNOT!
Justin and Travis are pretty cool,
Piera's always in the pool.
Adam and Matthew B are really sporty,
Carly and Chris are never naughty
Thats 8M for '97
All perfect angels straight from heaven

SPORT CO-ORDINATOR

The 1997 sporting life of the College community has been very extensive, very successful and a very important aspect of the curriculum. It has been very encouraging to watch so many of our students involve themselves so actively in such a tremendous variety of activities.

This must auger well for their future, as they continually display a very positive attitude to an active lifestyle. This is an important outcome from the College program and vision; we hope students will continue their endeavours in the future.

The College is very appreciative of the community support for our students and we look forward to a continued successful association in our joint bid to encourage and support our students' efforts and aspirations in the sporting sphere.

Mr Graham Jones.
(Acting HOD)

NETBALL

THE 1997 MARIST NETBALL TEAM

For the past three years BCC has sent a team of 10 fighting fit netball players interstate to the Annual Marist Netball Carnival and this year it was our turn. During the second week of the July school holidays we packed our bags and headed off to Shepparton, Victoria, to face tough opposition and brave the elements of nature. We played three intensive days of netball and gave it all we had even though it was wet, windy and really, really cold. We managed to get ourselves on television and be known to others as the 'friendly team'. Although we would have liked to have brought the trophy back to WA it unfortunately went back to NSW - again. Throughout the trip we gained experience and were noticed by others for our enthusiasm and good sportsmanship.

In the lead up to the trip we played in the local U/21 competition to have experience behind us as a team. We competed strongly throughout the season and won our grand final.

Finally thank you to Mrs Nichols, Miss Moore and Mrs Cairns for giving up their time to run training sessions, come to games, organise bookings and all behind scene tasks. The trip also wouldn't have been possible without never ending fund raising and the generous support of local businesses, individuals and families.

THANK YOU.

BACK ROW: Anna Cairns (Manager), Catherine Donnan, Janene Wells, Emily Townsend, Sue-Ellen Fitzgerald, Hayley Thompson, Rachel Moore (Assistant Coach), Louise Nichols (Coach)

BUNBURY NETBALL ASSOCIATION.

BCC 1 represented Bunbury Catholic College at the Australian Marist Netball Carnival and also played in the Bunbury Netball Association's under 21 Tuesday night indoor competition. The team was extremely successful and finished on top of the ladder and then went on to win the Grand Final. Bree Maciejewski won fairest and best for the year and Janene Wells the most consistent player award. Catherine Donnan won the trophy for the best player in the Grand Final against a Bunbury Cathedral Grammar team.

The team were:

Lesley Sharp, Emily Townsend, Hayley Thompson, Emily Platts, Sue-Ellen Fitzgerald, Rachel Moore (Assistant Coach) Louise Nichols (Coach), Janene Wells, Catherine Donnan, Bree Maciejewski (Ambassador), Kelly Lake (Vice-Captain), Renae O'callaghan (Captain), Anna Cairns (Manager).

BCC 2 had a good season, with a team that included 3 Bunbury Senior High students.

Awards went to Leila Tresize for fairest and best and Lauren House for most improved.

The team were:

Erin Rolfe, Tanaha Smith, Josie Jones, Miss Siobhon Twaddle (Coach) Leila Tresize, Lecile

INTERSCHOOL TRIATHLON

On the 25th of March, twenty four students travelled out to the picturesque Wellington Dam for the annual schools' triathlon. After a few early hiccups—not enough room for students and bikes on the bus and the worry of rolling backwards down the infamous Collie hill—we arrived. On what turned out to be an extremely hot day the races were underway.

Our students competed relatively well with many outstanding results.

In the overall points BCC finished fourth in the Upperschool championships and 7th in the Lower school championships.

Well done to all those involved and we look forward to next year's inter-school triathlon.

MR. Wilkinson

Sharp, Letea Cavander, Lisa Nordstrom, Bethany Cornish, Lauren House.

BCC 3 enjoyed a season coached by 2 year 12 students. Fairest & Best award went to Sonia Commisso and Moya Bazzo received an award for being best team player.

The team were:

Megan Hodgins, Moya Bazzo, Katie Clarke, Sonia Commisso, Jessica Bridge, Sarah Dean (As-Coach) Rebecca Bridge (As-Coach) Candice Nietrezba. Absent - Astin Crabb, Haylea Colum, Melissa Joy.

BCC4 was a year 10 team coached by 2 Yr 12 students and an ex-student. The team had a very challenging season on the scoreboard and the court, but there are some great names to watch out for in years to come. Award winners were, Fairest and Best: Linda Spinelli; Most Consistent: Ciara Bambrick.

The team were:

Elisha Milligan, Reagan Shalders, Ciara Bambrick, Natalie Fimmano, Linda Spinelli, Jacqui Idziak (Co-coach), Stacey Sorgiovanni, Candice Giblett, Melissa DuToit, Elise Stephen, Co-coaches; Kym and Michelle Head.

BCC5 were:

Tahlia Maslin, Lauren Spencer, Krisha Zeiba, Jada Snashall, Pauline Maslin (coach), Antonette Fedele, Tenneli Wilson, Rebecca King, Kavina Fedele, Emma Jones.

LUNCH TIME SOCCER STORY - PART 3

THE EMPIRE STRIKES BACK !!!

The Empire was destroyed. Banished to the far flung reaches of the Universe by the Rebellion - a small band of FREEDOM FIGHTERS led by the fearless and now legendary Jo Addy.

With nothing left to fear, young warriors came rushing back, hoping to claim a place in the history books. PHANTOMS OF BRAZIL and HEMROIDS were to become household names as Kim Sue and Liam Shalders held the Jedi flame aloft, claiming all known worlds in the name of The Rebellion. A NEW BREED of knights arose out of the ashes of despair to fight for the prized BC CUP. Chaos reigned in the world of Lunch - Time Soccer, as many would - be kings and queens jostled for the Title of LT 3 Champions. Joe Addy and his band of merry men had retired, leaving a vacuum that few could, but many sought to fill. The pretenders to the throne fought each other and laughed openly in the face of the once powerful Empire. Even WHAT - THE NEXT GENERATION ridiculed the memory of the former Superpower of Lunch - Time Soccer as the evil Emperor Fewster was presumed long since dead.

But somewhere in deepest, darkest suburbia, the smallest glimmer of hope flickered and burned still in the heart of the banished Emperor as, unseen on a distant planet in the Dantooine System, he regrouped his decimated troops. Back from the Styx came Doyle Vader. After finishing Jedi training, Luke Skywalker glided in on his X-Wing Fighter, closely followed by his guru Jedi Master Jones. While The Rebellion danced, shouted and celebrated its victory a new, improved Empire was forming. Before long Commander Bryce and Stormtrooper Eglington rejoined the Imperial Guards. When Han Snelson, still seething with anger from his carbon freezing at the hands of that devious Jo Addy, signed up for the motley crew, Emperor Fewster knew it was time to change the script.

Fewster, Doyle, Wilkinson and Jones. Bryce, Eglington and Snelson.

With six-guns loaded and firmly in their holsters, with rifles across their saddles, the Magnificent Seven rode quietly into town.

The Saloon was bursting at the seams with revellers, drinking and celebrating the new lawlessness of Soccerville under the badge of Sheriff Kavanagh. The Sheriff, in fact, was the only one who noticed the seven strangers sidle on up to the saloon swing doors.

"This ain't no place fer strangers, boys. Best pack up yer saddle bags an' be skedaddle!"

Fewster looked the sheriff up and down. Took a long chew on his tobacco. Surveyed the scene. Checked out the roof tops and the windows on the far side of the street. They weren't expected.

"My boys are mighty tired, Sheriff. I'm guessin' there's rooms in that there saloon over yonder, an' we're fixin' on takin' a couple of 'em."

"Yep." added Little Doyle.

"I ain't taskin' boys, I'm tellin' yer. Now git afore I kick yer butts from here to Timbucktoo!!" Sheriff Kavanagh hollered in arrogant indignation.

Before the sheriff could unsling his pig irons it was all over. Three shots, three goals.

"This town's ours now, boys. Saddle on up 'n' move out!!"

"Yep." nodded Little Doyle.

"I reckon!" It was the Jones boy adding his approval.

Brycey-the-Kid clinked his spurs.

Side by side the seven moseyed on out, ready for the next fight in POPOOLI TOWN.

Everyone knew Calamity Kate was the gunslinger to fear in Popooliville, along with her faithful Sidearm Sonia. Word had already spread across the bush telegraph, and Calamity Kate was waiting at the gates with a "welcoming committee".

"This town aint big enough fer both of us, Mister. You an' your boys here at best move on an' there'll be no trouble." she sneered.

"Nope." replied Little Doyle.

Brycey-the-Kid clinked his spurs.

When the shootin' began, the cowgirls ran. Another town claimed in the name of Independence.

"Wagons roll !!" hollered 'Mister' Fewster.

"Yep." nodded Little Doyle.

"I reckon !" It was the Jones boy adding his approval.

Brycey-the-Kid clinked his spurs.

More towns fell from SUICIDAL CITY to TEINE TOWN across the West, and with each new victory the news spread about that Mister Fewster and his gun totin' team. The citizens of MONOBROW METROPOLIS thought they were the next generation of Cup winners, but they too fell by the wayside in the wake of the Seven. Even the ghost town DON'T NOW was claimed, despite being deserted. As the Seven worked their way south towards their final destination, the foe changed face. They met a NEW BREED of WARRIOR, led by the infamous Daniel O' Byrne. But even he could not stop the wagon train from rolling on South. As they cut their swathe through Mexico they left behind them the fallen tribes of the ancient GRAZYLKA, and the BAD BOY Banditos from BANANAVILLE. The CEREAL GIRLS could not stop them and nor could the CAVE PIGS from Panama. The boys were going south, and only one other man knew where they were heading. That man was the evil bandit from Brazil - El Cosenza. He had heard about Carbine Eglington and Brycey-the-Kid. They'd all shot, they'd all scored, even Wilkinson's sword was bloodied by the time they reached that famous border town of Cupville.

The Town looked deserted. Not a breath, not a sound. Just a note pinned to the saloon door.

"The BC Coral at noon. Signed 'El Cosenza'." Six-gun Snelson read aloud for Little Doyle and the rest of the boys. (they were mighty fine at shootin', but a mite loose at readin'.)

"Them's fightin' words." growled Carbine Eglington.

"Yep." nodded Little Doyle.

"I reckon !" It was the Jones boy adding his approval.

Brycey-the-Kid clinked his spurs.

"Well, we aint come all this way fer nothin'. Let's load us some lead an' shoot us some Brazilians !!" It was the Carbine sayin' what they was all thinkin'. They all looked to 'Mister' Fewster, itchin' fer a fight, but always waitin' fer his final say so. He leaned over his saddle and chewed on his baccy some more. He looked each man square in the eye. The Jones boy checked his rounds. Wilkinson honed his blade. Little Doyle stared vacantly back - no fear there, thought Mister Fewster. Not much there at all, he thought again. These men were fixin' fer a fight, primed and ready fer the Gunfight at the BC Coral. They all waited for Mister Fewster to give the nod. He turned to Snelson, twirling his six-guns round his fingers, and Carbine polishing his rifle. He looked at Brycey-the-Kid who beamed over his bandana. It was nearly noon. Finally he answered

"Go ahead, boys. Make my day."

"Yep." nodded Little Doyle.

"I reckon !" It was the Jones boy adding his approval.

Brycey-the-Kid clinked his spurs.

As they headed down to the coral, they could see four lone gunmen waitin' at the goals. They knew El Cosenza and Cap'n Sue by sight, but Alamo Allen and Palermo Panetta were merely Phantoms of Brazilian folklore.

The town was deserted as the two groups stared each other down at opposite ends of the coral. Only Undertaker Perrella had been prepared to stay in town when the El Cosenza had pinned that note to the door.

As the clock struck noon, El Cosenza was the first to draw. His aim was good and he took out Carbine. Vince's shot was sure and he maimed Brycey. Wilkinson was winged by an Alamo Allen shot, and Cap'n Sue got Mister Fewster with a blow to the chest. The Jones boy dived for cover under the barrage, leaving Little Doyle and Six-gun Snelson in the open. The shootin' stopped as the undertaker blew his whistle, but none needed his services.

"Looks like it's just you an' me, kid." whispered Snelson as the two stood their ground.

"Yep." agreed Little Doyle grimly.

But just as the Brazilian Banditos closed in for the kill, and Panetta grinned his toothless grin, Fewster raised himself up on one elbow and spat determinedly. The Lone Stranger had two bullets left. He took aim and fired. Down went Cap'n Sue, and over fell Alamo Allen. As the Phantoms

BCC CRICKET

The senior cricket teams had a successful SWISSA season against Grammar and MacKillop College Busselton. Both teams were unbeaten in these games.

The senior team also entered the Coca Cola Cup competition but were eliminated by a very strong team from Narrogin High School who run a specialist cricket course.

The highlight of our season is the Annual Marist Cricket Carnival. Our senior team travelled to Sale in Victoria to compete against Marist Schools from all over Australia. Coach Nigel Snelson and his assistant Lloyd Rolfe moulded together a competitive team. The team beat North Shore Marist College on the first day but then narrowly lost to eventual winners St Joseph's College. The team also came close to beating Ashgrove College, Brisbane, before finishing 5th in the carnival. The big success was for our leading fast bowler, Micky Wilson, who was chosen in the looked over to where Mister Fewster lay, Doyle took up the charge - he shot - he scored ! Then Snelson too aimed sure and true.

To everyone's surprise the fight was over and the Magnificent Seven had won. Once more a name worth Truth and Justice was etched on that Holy Grail - The BC Cup.

As the dust settled, and quiet again descended over Cupville, Fewster turned to his faithful posse.

"I guess that just about wraps it all up, boys."

"Yep." nodded Little Doyle.

"I reckon !" It was the Jones boy adding his approval.

Brycey-the-Kid clinked his spurs.

The Seven rode off into the sunset side by side. Their job was done. Order had been restored in the land of Lunch-Time Soccer. The Empire had struck back.

Marist Carnival Australia XI. The team was ably lead by the Captain, Matthew Rolfe.

The Marist Carnival is a great experience for all boys chosen in the team and we look forward to next years carnival which Bunbury Catholic College will be hosting.

The competing schools are:

St Joseph's College, Sydney

Sacred Heart College, Adelaide

Marcellin College, Melbourne

Canberra Marist College

St. Gregory's College, Cambeltown NSW

The organising committee is well advanced with its preparations for the Carnival to be held in January 1998. People in the Marist community who are able to assist in any way are most welcome to join us. We particularly need people to billet visitors, donations of fruit and assistance with making lunches. Please contact carnival convener Mick Fewster if you are able to help in any way.

ATHLETICS

With such a wide variety of disciplines involved in athletics, we were fortunate enough to witness a very broad cross section of the College student body compete in these events. The BCC carnival was most enjoyable and both SWISSA and ACC were very challenging.

VOLLEYBALL

BCC has experienced a very successful volleyball season this year. Three teams were entered in the junior competition at the Bunbury Recreation Centre in both terms 2 and 3. All three BCC teams made it into the finals in term 2 and congratulations to all those involved including the "one" Yr. 11 and 12 team that won the Autumn Season and especially Brooke Scheffner (10N) who was awarded most valuable player in the competition. A team of Year 8 girls and a team of Year 9 boys also took part in the State Junior Cup held in Perth from the 19-21 September with the girls team making it into the semi-finals. Thank you to all those involved and hopefully next year will bring just as many successes.

HOCKEY

ACC HOCKEY

Three Bunbury Catholic College students were selected to represent Western Australia on the ACC Representative Hockey Tour, touring Fiji and New Zealand in December this year. Jarred Phillips, Mark Johnson and Jemma Harris were selected from approximately 120 boys and girls to represent their state, and their school, on the tour.

Thank you to Mr Eglington for organising nominations.

SWISSA GIRLS HOCKEY

This year we entered an open girls hockey team in the SWISSA competition. The twelve girls played two games, against MacKillop Catholic College and Bunbury Cathedral Grammar. We drew 1-1 with MacKillop and lost 0-4 to Grammar, yet we had fun and learned to play as a team. Thank you to all the girls, and to Mr Jones for organising the games.

SWISSA BOYS HOCKEY

Once again, BCC entered the SWISSA Boys' Hockey Competition. We had about sixteen boys from Year 8 to 12. We had a convincing win over MacKillop and we also won over Bunbury Grammar. Thanks to Mr Robb for coaching and organising the games.

SWIMMING

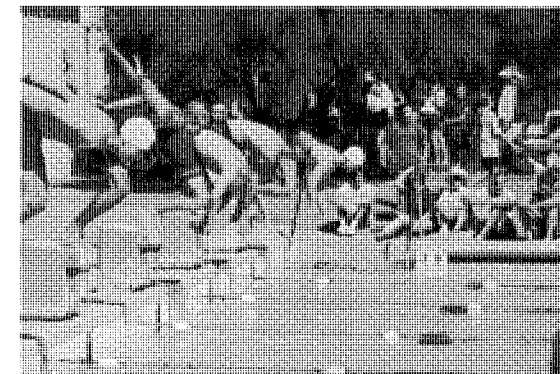

With many fine swimmers in the college- the BCC, SWISSA and ACC carnivals were both exciting and provided many quality performances.

REMARKABLE REMINISCENCES

1. Miss Twaddle - In the days where nakedness was acceptable and wading pools were cool
2. Mr Doyle - Is that Gavin, no but there is a striking resemblance isn't there?
3. Mr Podgorny - We couldn't locate a young photo of this beautiful specimen, but we think you can tell who it is, to infinity and beyond.
4. Mrs May - Don't worry, we also saw a similarity to our very own Miss Spiers.
5. Mr Bryce - Free love and flower power, hey Mr Bryce?
6. Mr Chipchase - (on the left) how could you not tell?
7. Mr DeLima - What an angel, oh how we develop with age.
8. Mr Douglas youngster - Who would have thought that this innocent little boy would turn into bunsen brandishing mad scientist?
9. Mr Hogan - Ohhhhhh, those were the days he first picked up a hammer and lathe.
10. Mrs Forrest - What can we say?
